

2011 Preservation Awards: Call for Nominations

Historic Columbia Foundation is delighted to announce the solicitation of nominations for the 2011 Annual Preservation Awards. Help us recognize the commendable efforts of both Columbia's citizens and their preservation projects by nominating those who meet the following criteria.

Award Categories are:

- Preservation/Restoration
Nominations in this category will be projects of historical significance restored to their original design. An example would be a retail store, in an historic district, which continues to sell to the general public.
- Adaptive Use
Projects in this category will have been rehabilitated, while keeping many of the original elements; the structure will also incorporate new elements that will allow the structure to be used for a new function. An example would be an old warehouse now being used as residential apartments or condominiums.
- New Construction in an Historic Context
Nominations in this category will be new buildings placed in an historic district or adjacent to historic structures that complement the historic context.
- Preservation Leadership
Nominations in this category will recognize an individual, governmental agency, and/or community or neighborhood association who contributed to the advancement of historic preservation in the region.

Nominations should be limited to recent projects (completed in the last five years) and located in the Columbia and Richland County. Only completed projects will be considered. Awards will be presented to recipients at Historic Columbia's Annual Preservation Luncheon the first week of May.

Please provide as much information as possible on nominations and return to our office by Tuesday, March 1st, 2011.
